Choosing a School

In selecting a school for your daughter, you would like to know:

What is the MORAL tone of the school; what is its influence, its ideals, its traditions; does its whole aim, influence and teaching make for strong, high-minded character?

What is the SCHOLARSHIP standard; is it thorough, is it practical; does it fundamentally teach the pupil to think for herself?

THE BARNARD SCHOOL FOR GIRLS has been studying this question of school efficiency for eighteen years, and in its solution we have found the constant factor is the teacher.

Therefore we have chosen our teachers most carefully, not only as to scholarship and training, but as to character and refinement. We know our teachers intimately, not only in the school, but in their home life.

A school is judged by its results. Therefore we beg to refer you to the mothers, whose daughters are now, or have been, in the school; to the colleges which our girls have entered, and to our alumnae.

LESLIE, MRS. FRANK (BARONESS DE BAZUS)

Editor, publisher; b. New Orleans, 1851, of old French Huguenot family, descended from Philip Picot; ed. at home by her father, in French, Spanish, Italian, German and Latin; began writing for publication at age of thirteen, and subsequently married Frank Leslie, the publisher. In 1877 made transcontinental tour, from which grew her work, From Gotham to the Golden Gate; Itza, the Unexplored Regions of Central America; Rents in Our Clothes; Are we All Deceivers?, etc., besides translating from the French, Spanish and Italian, and magazine articles on travel and social topics, poems, etc. On Jan. 10, 1885, Mr. Leslie died, leaving entire establishment, $300,000 in debt, and sixteen publications in hands of an assignee. After seventeen different law suits, triumphed over all obstacles, straightened out affairs of the publications (among which was Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper) and made great financial and literary success. About 1902 sold out all her interests, and the name Frank Leslie, which she had legally assumed in 1881 for business purposes, she now abandoned, resuming the family name of the Baroness de Bazus, a French title which was created in the time of Saint Louis, and which has belonged to her ancestors for many generations. MARBLE, MANTON

Editor, author, diplomat; b. Worcester, Mass., Nov. 16, 1834; s. Joel and Nancy Chapin (Coes) Marble (she was a descendant of Thaddeus Chapin and Lucy Whitney; he a descendant of Samuel and Freegrace Marble, after whom Marble Ridge was named, near Andover, Mass.), and grandson of Deacon Solomon Marble (at Bunker Hill, Saratoga, Yorktown) and Jerusha (Greenwood) Marble, both of Milbury, Mass.; ed. chiefly by father, grad. Albany Acad., 1853, Univ. of Rochester, 1855. Seven years' staff service with Boston and N. Y. journals (under William Cullen Bryant, 1858-1860; Journey to Red River and Beyond, 1859; N. Y. World, under Mr. Spalding, 1860-1862); then, 1862-1876, owner and editor N. Y. World, through War and Reconstruction periods. Chm'n Exec. Com. Nat. Dem. Com., 1864. Gave early publicity in U. S. to writings of Herbert Spencer (c. g.), on maintenance of justice as chief, if not sole, legitimate domestic function of Gov't wielding coercive power of whole body of citizens; in opposition to Peace-Democrats, held that, after Fort Sumter, war was unavoidable for resisting disruption of Union and subversion of its Constitution; opposed exorbitance of exec. power, usurpings of ungranted power as likewise its subversion; opposed warping Custom House taxation, touching all, into profit machines of a few; opposed Federal income taxing as direct taxes faithless to an original compromise, and false to actual terms of the Constitution; opposed greenbacks (as ever-injurious substitute for money), also doubling the cost of the war then waging, and repeating our own calamitous colonial experience which had caused the shaping of the Constitution to make such issues lawless; opposed negro suffrage, and impeachment of Pres. Johnson. Obstructing a partisan misuse for partisan advantage, of issues so momentous, he urged and supported procedures consummated in the Washington Treaty, Geneva Arbitration, Alabama Award, deeming explicit avowal of regret from the source over the seas of our greatest injury to be the best ending of old antagonisms and only beginning of subsequent peace. Began that assault against Tweed Ring which finally purged city gov't for a season and elected Samuel J. Tilden Gov. of N. Y.; wrote Syracuse, N. Y., Dem. State platform, 1874, and the St. Louis Nat. Dem. platform, 1876, upon which Mr. Tilden stood for Gov. of N. Y. and Presidency of U. S.; similar platform of 1884 upon which Mr. Cleveland stood for Presidency, and a pamphlet, 1878, disclosing that for the Electoral Comm'n law. Mr. Tilden was not responsible. Special envoy sent by Pres. Cleveland, 1885, to gov'ts of Great Britain, France, Germany, and after conferences with Prince Bismarck, with MM. Freycinet, Carnot, and with Cernuschi, the classic authority upon internat. bimetallism, and with Mr. Goschen, Lord Iddesleigh and Mr. Gladstone, ascertained and advised the President that resumption of free bimetallic coinage by any European power was conditioned sine qua non upon British coöperation, which neither Tory nor Liberal ministries were prepared for (Mr. Gladstone doubtless preferring even then the Indian mints' closure to continuing their free coinage of silver) and that our own U. S. Treasury purchases of silver should cease. Author: A Letter to Abraham Lincoln, 1864; the Presidential Counts, 1877; A Secret Chapter of Political History, 1878; Memoir of Alex G. Mercer, D.D., prefixed to his Bible Characters, 1885; and Notes of an Outlook on Life, collected from his MSS., 1899. Life mem. A. A. A. S., Am. Acad. Polit. and Social Science, Am. Calif., Anna Catherine Murphy, also a writer; one son: Virgil, b. 1899. In 1899, while head-master of the Observation Sch. of Univ. of Calif., wrote "The Man with the Hoe." The poem immediately attracted the attention of both hemispheres. From boyhood wrote for magazines and newspapers and found entrance to the best Eastern publications, but up to the appearance of "The Man with the Hoe" his writings had not attracted any considerable attention. This poem called out an extraordinary volume of comment; some characterizing it as "an insult to labor" and others as "a psalm of labor" and "the battle-cry of the next thousand years." It was copied throughout the world and translated into every living tongue. Was for 7 years sup't of schools in Calif., and for 10 years head-master of Observation Sch., Univ. of Calif.; in 1899 abandoned edn'l work to devote time to literature, removing to N. Y. City. Camp Mooswa

FOR BOYS UNDER SIXTEEN — Nova Scotia

Last season two boys from St. Louis (10 and 12 years) attended Camp Mooswa. The mother writes: "Mr. S—— and I will go to Europe this Summer, taking our motor car, and we have decided to send our boys to you again. They prefer Mooswa to a European trip, so you see you have won their hearts."

Missouri is some distance from Nova Scotia. Our illustrated booklet will be of interest to parents making a careful selection of a suitable camp for their boys.

If you want to choose your first teacher of SINGING, or to make a change, because you do not notice decided progress in every lesson, go to

Madame C. de Rigaud

Telephone, Riverside 1152 — 2647 Broadway, New York

In any case let her give a frank and reliable opinion and advice regarding your voice.

MME. FRIEDA LANGENDORFF, the great contralto of the Metropolitan Opera, New York, and the Royal Operas of Berlin and Vienna, says:

May 1st, 1908.

I studied under the greatest masters wherever my professional life led me, but I found nowhere as clear and natural a course of tuition as Mme. de Rigaud uses in her lessons. In the many hours spent at her studio I have profited greatly by her thoroughly scientific method, and I am convinced that with her method of voice treatment she has corrected all kinds of faults in an incredibly short time, and also that she develops small voices so that they bloom out too large, individual and attractive ones. To all my young studying colleagues I wish to say that Madame de Rigaud's beautiful art of teaching has proven most helpful and valuable. [Translation.]

Mme. de Rigaud holds a number of equally strong and hearty endorsements from prominent singers, which will be furnished on application.

Tone Production and the Art of Singing

Artist Pupils in All the Leading Opera Houses

The Weigester Studios of Vocal Music

ROBERT S. WEIGESTER - - - - - Director
862-863 CARNEGIE HALL, NEW YORK

OFFER a complete education for the singer, and invite personal application or correspondence from those desiring the best in vocal instruction. Pupils accepted at any time between September 15th and June 30th.

In order to place the Weigester method of singing and teaching of singing within the reach of those who are unable to attend the regular winter sessions, a Summer Term of Six Weeks is held annually near Elmira, N. Y.

Eighth annual session of the Weigester Summer School will open July 20, 1914

This special course has been planned to cover the entire art of singing. This does not mean that a beginner in 6 weeks' time will become a finished singer, but that the entire ground of vocal study is covered by means of lecture, class and private instructions; the principles of correct tone-production are explained, and the qualifications of an artist are brought out, in order that the students may work intelligently by themselves during the time when they are away from an instructor.

Write to our New York address for Booklet C, which gives complete information about Winter and Summer Sessions and Rates.

MORTON, LEVI PARSONS

Former Vice-Pres. of U. S. and Gov. of N. Y.; b. Shoreham, Vt., May 16, 1824; youngest s. Rev. Daniel Oliver and Lucretia (Parsons) Morton; ed. Shoreham Acad.; LL.D., Dartmouth Coll., July 14, 1891, and Middleburg (Vt.) Coll., 1892; m. 1st, Lucy Kimball (died 1871); 2d, 1873, Anna Livingston Street; five children, four now living. On completion of academy course, engaged in mercantile business; when 20 years old began business at Hanover, N. H., continuing about five years; in 1849, became connected with house of James M. Beebe & Co., Boston, as clerk; joined the firm later as partner, and after about five years came to N. Y. City and established the wholesale dry goods comm'n house of Morton & Grinnell; in 1863, went into the banking business, establishing the house of Morton, Bliss & Co., and in connection with Sir John Rose, who was late financial minister of Canada, founded house of Morton, Rose & Co., London. Made careful study of the financial transactions of the U. S. Gov't, and his firm was one of the syndicates which successfully assisted in funding the national debt and made the resumption of sp'l payments possible at a fixed rate. The London firm were the first fiscal agents of the U. S. Gov't, 1873-1884; were again appt'd, 1889. In the negotiation of the U. S. bonds and the payment of the Geneva Award of $15,500,000, and the Halifax Fishery Award of $5,500,000, his firm was associated with Messrs, Rothschilds and other London bankers. Firm of Morton, Bliss & Co. was dissolved Oct. 1, 1899, and was succeeded by the Morton Trust Co.; continued at head of the London house of Morton, Rose & Co. until its dissolution. App't, 1878, by President Hayes, hon. comm'r of U. S. to the Paris Exp'n; elected, 1878 and 1880, to 46th and 47th Congresses, serving from 1879-1883; strongly opposed the unlimited coinage of silver in 1879; also deeply interested in internat. politics and relations of U. Miss Anne Stevenson

Teacher of Singing

828 Carnegie Hall New York City

¶ Have you ever heard a singer whose speaking voice you considered beautiful, while you thought the singing voice somewhat harsh?
¶ That voice has not been properly trained from the beginning.
¶ Miss Stevenson has made a scientific study under Belari, the teacher of Madame Nordica, of the whole subject of breath control, muscular control, concentration of resonance, and the cultivation of mellowness of quality which gives the ideal tone to the voice.

Frederic Dixon

Teacher of Piano

JOSEFFY METHOD

828 Carnegie Hall New York City

¶ Mr. Dixon presents a quick, concise, scientific method for gaining perfect control of all the muscles of the arms and hands used in piano playing. This method gives independence of the fingers, and assures speed and clearness in scales, arpeggios, trills, octaves and chord passages, thus making it possible to play artistically and to perform the master pieces according to traditional interpretation, and to raise the general piano playing to a very high standard.

RIES, ELIAS ELKAN

Inventor, elec. and mech. eng'r; b. Randegg, Baden, Germany, Jan. 16, 1862; s. Elkan Elias and Bertha (Weil) Ries; ed. public schools, N. Y. City, Maryland Inst., Baltimore; Johns Hopkins Univ. (physical sciences, etc.); m. Baltimore, Md., April 21, 1895, Helen, d. Lewis H. and Rebecca Hirshberg; one d.: Estelle, b. March 5, 1896. Removed with parents to U. S. in 1865; began in 1876 as telegraph operator of the Gold and Stock and the Western Union Telegraph Cos.; removed to N. Y. City, 1880, and became identified with development of electric light industry in employ of the Edison Co., the U. S. Elec. Illuminating Co., Fuller Mf'g Co., etc.; returned to Baltimore, 1884, to devote attention to developing his inventions in electric signalling, railroading, controlling apparatus and illumination, organizing companies to push these inventions; among these being his well-known regulating socket, which was the first practicable device for "turning down" or controlling the light or candle power of incandescent electric lamps without the use of wasteful resistanee, thereby placing the incandescent lamp on a par with gas. Also inventor and patentee of the modern alternating current or "converter" electric railway system, by which the limitations and restrictions of the 500-volt trolley systems were for the first time successfully overcome. The underlying principle of electric generation, transmission, conversion and distribution disclosed in these patents made possible the various rapid transit subways and tunnels now operating in N. Y. City, and the electrification of suburban and long distance steam railways now going on in the U. S. and other countries. His basic patents on this invention were finally adjudged in his favor after nearly 14 years litigation, and were purchased by the Westinghouse Elec and Mf'g Co. in 1903, on behalf of itself and the General Electric Co., then operating under the so-called Patent Pool arrangement. Has taken out over 200 patents on various pioneer inventions, many of which are in extensive use, some of the more notable being his method of electrically welding track rails, new processes of rivetting by electricity, underground electric railway conduit or sub-trolley system now used in New York and other large cities; methods and appliances for electric heating and cooking, telephone and telephonograph systems and apparatus, etc. Among others in general use are his basic patents on electric elevator controllers, etc., covering the method and apparatus adopted by the Otis Elevator Co. and others on their electric elevators, and for general motor starting and braking purposes. Invented and perfected an entirely new and very effective telephone system and apparatus, the patents on which were taken over by the United States Automatic Telephone Co. of N. Y. In 1912, following the sinking of the "Titanic" by collision with an iceberg, he applied for patents on a novel sound-detecting and registering system designed to prevent such disasters in future, and which also provides other important safeguards against the dangers of navigation. Independent in politics. Hebrew religion. Mem. Am. Inst. Elec. Eng'rs, A.A.A.S., Am. Electrochem. Soc., N. Y. Elec. Soc., Am. Ass'n Inventors and Mf'rs, Nat. Geog. Soc. Internat. Elec. Congress, 1904; registered patent attorney of U. S. Patent Office, etc. Recreations: Metaphysics, political and social science, photography. Address: 116 Nassau St., N. Y. City.

ASHEVILLE SCHOOL

Located in the Mountains of North Carolina, NEAR ASHEVILLE

NEWTON M. ANDERSON and CHARLES A. MITCHELL, Principals

The following is a statement of its most important features:

1. The school is a high grade, standard college preparatory school, which seeks only those boys whose home life has laid the foundation for good character, manly conduct and good scholarship.

2. The school is situated in the most healthful region east of the Mississippi River, in a climate giving the largest opportunity for out-door life.

3. The grounds contain seven hundred acres of land, providing fields for games, ponds, streams, woods and hills. This land was selected not only with regard to its usefulness, but also for the beauty of its surroundings.

4. The playing fields contain 3 baseball diamonds, football field, ¼ mile running track, 9 tennis courts, golf course, gun traps (under the supervision of a master), and a rowing course ⅞ of a mile in length.

5. The gymnasium has 5 squash courts, 4 courts for basketball, and swimming pool, beside all the usual equipment.

6. The buildings were constructed especially for school purposes and are thoroughly sanitary.

7. The courses of study, though broad, are consistent, and give the best preparation to boys who desire to enter any college or technical school or to go into business.

8. The teachers are graduates of the best Northern colleges, chosen for their fitness to instruct and care for boys.

9. The boys are under constant care and charge of the principals and their families.

10. As there is one master for every 10 boys, each boy gets an abundance of individual care, both in his school life and in his home life.

11. The school refers to the authorities of over 21 of the leading collegiate institutions which its graduates have entered within the past 14 years.

12. Graduates of the school now attend Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Williams, Amherst, Mass. Inst. of Technology, Cornell, Case School of Applied Science, University of Pennsylvania, University of Michigan, University of Wisconsin, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Brown University, Haverford College, Leland Stanford, Jr., and other well-known colleges.

13. Present students are from New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Colorado, Oklahoma, California, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida.

Assembly; in session of 1883 (in which the Democrats had a majority) was a candidate for the speakership; and in session of 1884 was chm'n Com. on Cities, and of the special com. which investigated abuses in the conduct of the gov't of N. Y. City. In 1884 was delegate to N. Y. State Rep. Conv., and later in same year delegate at large, and chm'n of N. Y. delegation to Nat. Rep. Conv. at Chicago; supported Senator Edmunds for the presidential nomination, but when Blaine was nominated, entered actively into the campaign in his behalf. Bought a ranch in North Dakota and lived on it for two years studying the Far West and its people thoroughly and becoming an adept as ranchman and hunter. Returned to N. Y. City, 1886, and was made Rep. nominee for mayor, but was defeated by Abram S. Hewitt; appt'd mem. U. S. Civil Service Comm'n, 1889, and served as its pres., but resigned that office in 1895 to accept the presidency of the Police Comm'n under the administration of Mayor Strong, which office held until April 6, 1897, when was appt'd by President McKinley Ass't Sec. of the Navy. When war with Spain was declared he resigned his position in the Navy Dep't and with Dr. Leonard Wood, an army surgeon, organized the First Reg't U. S. Volunteer Cavalry, recruited from the ranches of the West and popularly known as the Rough Riders, Surgeon Wood because of his superior tactical knowledge, becoming col. and Mr. Roosevelt lieut-col.; reg't went to the front, to Cuba, and participated in the fighting in front of Santiago de Cuba, and was promoted to colonelcy of the reg't for gallantry at Las Guasimas; at close of the war returned with reg't to Montauk Point, where was mustered out of service; shortly afterward was nominated for and, Nov., 1898, was elected Gov. of New York; in 1900 was nominated for vice-Pres. of the United States by the Rep. Nat. Conv. at Philadelphia, and elected, and entered on the duties of that office March 4, 1901; on the death of Pres. McKinley, Sept. 14, 1901, was sworn in as Pres.; in the Nat. Conv, 1904, was nominated for Pres., and in Nov. election was elected by a plurality in the popular vote of 2,512,417 and a majority of 1,696,142, for the term beginning March 4, 1905, and expiring March 4, 1909. His administration was marked by the inauguration of great works of public improvement, notably the Panama Canal; by measures for the orderly government and advancement of the people of our insular possessions, by the prosecution of faithless officials, the curbing of law-breaking corp'ns, the making of laws for proper inspection of the packing and meat-dressing industries, the prevention of frauds and impurities in food products, the conservation of our natural resources, and other salutary measures inaugurated in response to President's initiative. In foreign policy Mr. Roosevelt took the part of a peacemaker, and through his initiative Russia and Japan, by the treaty of Portsmouth, were brought to the conclusion of an honorable peace, in recognition of which the B'd of Dirs. of the Nobel Institute of Stockholm conferred upon him, in 1906, the Nobel Peace Prize. Although for twenty-five years past almost continuously occupied with the public service, has earned distinction also in the profession of letters. Is now contributing editor of The Outlook. MME. BAYERLEE

Teacher of Singing

Telephone Morningside 3665 502 East 113th Street, New York

1. Is a specialist in voice placing as well as in interpretation; she has, moreover, a thorough knowledge of the human throat.
2. She possesses the rare gift of the "absolute pitch," a gift which cannot be overvalued in a teacher of singing. Not only is her own intonation exquisitely pure, but her fine, sensitive ear allows her to develop purity of intonation and beauty of tone in her pupils.
3. She plays a virtuoso accompaniment.
4. She has a broad culture outside of music, having studied painting, history, literature, and especially languages: German, English, French, Italian.
5. She has restored many a voice which seemed hopelessly injured by abuse, and developed voices where other teachers failed to find any.

Madame Bayerlee refers by permission to the following former pupils:

HERR ANTON VON ROOY, Metropolitan Opera House, New York.

HERR LUDWIG MANTLER, Kaiserlich-Königliches Hofopernhaus, Vienna, Austria.

HOW TO BREATHE
HOW TO SIT HOW TO WALK
HOW TO STAND HOW TO TALK
HOW TO SING

BREATHING and physical exercises for health, for the proper use of the voice, poise of body and grace of carriage that ever mark the man or woman of culture and refinement.

Few know how to breathe, and yet breathing is the most important thing we do. Correct breathing will cure or prevent nervousness, indigestion, insomnia, asthma, tubercular conditions, baldness and excessive flesh.

The cultured man or woman must sit, stand, talk and walk correctly, and yet how few attain to these graceful conditions.

Any one who is not dumb may be taught to sing. Singing is the natural language of all human beings. Children sing little monotones before they learn to speak. Even the dumb hum discordant sounds in moments of revery.

We are the result of training in all things. The voice has simply been neglected, but stands now pleading for recognition.

Mme. Haggerty-Snell has never failed to develop a voice, regardless of age or talent. No one is too young or too old to improve the voice. Not all may become artists, but every one can be taught to sing artistically.

TOPAKYAN, HAIGAZOUN HOHANNES

Merchant and consul-general; b. Cæsarea, Turkey, Nov. 5, 1864; s. Hohannes and Dirhi Topakyan, and a descendant of one of the oldest Armenian aristocratic families; ed. public schools at Area, later attended the Am. Coll. in Bardizak to learn English. At age of 18 engaged in the dry goods business with father. Several years later removed to Constantinople and started in business for himself as comm'n merchant in dry goods. At end of three years came to the U. S. on a business trip, and while here determined to make it his permanent home. Closed out his business in Constantinople, and in 1887 started in N. Y. in the importation of Turkish, Persian and Indian Rugs. This business began in a modest way, has steadily grown under his careful and astute mgm't, until to-day is recognized as one of the most prominent importers of high-class rugs in this country. In 1892 appt'd by the Persian government Imperial Comm'r and dir.-gen. of their exhibits at the World's Fair at Chicago. At own expense built the Perslan and Ottoman pavilion, and received 48 diplomas and 48 medals for the magnificent and interesting exhibits he gathered from both countries, including the personal thanks and a diploma from Pres. Cleveland in recognition of his magnificent labors in the interests of the fair. In 1896 was decorated by the Venezuelan, Persian and Turkish gov'ts, the last two conferring distinguished honors upon him; The Imperial Order of the Lion and the Rising Sun, by the Persian gov't; the Magidiya, by the Turkish gov't, and the Busto del Libertador, by the Venezuelan gov't. In 1907 presented the U. S., to be hung in the White House, a $50,000 Persian rug, probably the finest specimen ever brought to this country (six and a half feet long and four feet wide); the texture is of the imperial silk marvelously woven and set with a multitude of rubies, pearls, turquoises and other gems. Pres. Roosevelt accepted the handsome gift in behalf of the gov't; the rug was hung in a beautiful mahogany frame. A second rug was presented to the gov't by him in 1910, during Pres. Taft's administration; gave a valuable antiquo carpet to the Field Columbian Museum of Chicago. Three gifts which he prizes highly are autograph photographs from Theodore Roosevelt, William H. Taft and J. Pierpont Morgan. Appt'd consul-general by the Persian gov't, 1909. Made life mem. Albany Burgesses Corps, also hon. col. and inspector of the staff of the corps, 1909. Is considered an art connoisseur and renowned expert on Persian rugs and tapestries; owner of two turquoise mines, one in Silver City, and the other near Santa Fe, New Mexico. Appt'd by the Persian government, Comm'r Gen. for Persia at the Panama-Pacific Internat. Exp'n of 1915. Mem. of numerous clubs and social org'ns. Residence: Persian Court, Morris Plains, N. J. Address: Consulate-General's Office, 225 Fifth Av., N. Y. City.

Soc. of Greater N. Y., West End. Med. Soc. Inventor of Electrophone, electric device to enable the deaf to hear. Made special study of value of electricity and magnetism in medicine, and has written various papers on the subject. When radium was discovered was among the first in this country to procure some of it and investigate its properties; wrote small volume on Radium and Radioactivity. Authority on med. use of electricity, magnetism and radium. The N. Y. Mail (Nov. 19, 1910), speaking of Dr. Tracy's use of electricity, says: "Wonderful waves of wireless electric energy passing through solid brick walls are being used by Dr. Samuel G. Tracy for the successful treatment of nervous diseases and other ailments. Dr. Tracy used the ordinary street current, causing the 110 volts to pass from the wire through the air and into the room where he is operating. Here it is taken up by a transformer coil and converted into a smooth, painless and harmless current. An ordinary electric light socket was attached to the transmormed coil, the receiver being in another room and having an electric lamp attached. Instantly this lamp glowed, showing the current at work through the air and wall. Two sponge electrodes, when taken in the hands, gave the patient only a pleasant sensation, although the current was sufficiently powerful to light the lamp and illuminate the room. By this new method Dr. Tracy claims that a patient may be treated for nervous diseases with constantly increasing tonic results, while with stimulatory drugs the effect, he says, is momentary only. The remarkable part of the treatment is the harnessing of the electric waves without the aid of wires, and their transformation into harmless activity." Republican. Mem. FIAT

20/30 H. P. TOWN CARS

THE 20/30 H. P. Fiat shaft drive Town Car, with Limousine or Landaulet body, is particularly adapted to the crowded conditions in the shopping and theatre districts of large cities, where a flexible motor, under perfect control, and an extremely short turning radius are necessary.

The bodies of this model are large, roomy and beautifully finished. A folding extension top, easily removable, is provided for protection of the driver. Windows are large and of sashless plate glass. Upholstery is deep and soft. Four people are comfortably seated on inside.
